GERMAN REICHSTAG ACCEPTS THE DAWES PLAN

REWARDS OFFERED FOR FOUR MEN WHO ESCAPED FROM JAIL

Jailer and Turnkey To Pay for Return of the Prisoners

QUARTETTE DIGS WAY TO LIBERTY

Thirteen Inch Wall Is Cut Noiselessly During Night

Rewards of $25 each has been offered for the return to the Morgan County jail of four prisoners, who escaped from that institution last night. The men who made a successful dash to freedom are: John Hutto, who resides in the west side of the county charged with manufacturing whiskey; Luther Gentry and W. G. Cole, arrested recently in a raid on a still near the Cullman County line; Ernest Hood, of near Flint, charged with manufacturing whiskey.

B. C. Poole, jailer and Perkins R. Carter, turnkey, this morning turned over to Sheriff Ernest Poole $100 in Central National cmfw cmfw cmfw cash which was deposited in the Central National bank. This fund will be paid as a reward for delivery of the men to the county jail. A reward of $25 is offered for the return of each. Officers today called attention to the law permitting any citizen to arrest the escaped prisoners.

Dug Through Wall

The prisoners escaped in some unaccountable manner from their cell and later dug through the 13 inch brick wall to freedom. Blankets were used on the floor where the bricks and mortar were placed, in order to deaden the sound.

Other prisoners sleeping in proximity to those who escaped notified officers of the escape early this morning. A. S. Grubbs calling Turnkey Carter shortly after daylight. The remaining prisoners explained that they were asleep and did not hear any noise. Officials who sleep in the building also were unaware of the attempt. It is believed the prisoners obtained a piece of their cot to help them dig through the brick wall. Officers had not yet been able to discover how the escape from the cells was made, inasmuch as the big lock remained locked this morning.

RENEWS ATTACK ON DAUGHERTY 'GANG'

(Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Senator Wheeler, of Indiana, prosecutor of the Daugherty committee and LaFollette candidate for vice president, today publicly renewed his work on "the Daugherty gang" in public office.

In a formal statement Mr. Wheeler dealt at length with an affidavit, said to have been made in Atlanta penitentiary by George Remus, once the Ohio bootleg king, repudiating the sensational testimony he gave last spring before the Daugherty committee.

"Testimony before the investigation," the senator's statement continues, "disclosed that the present warden of Atlanta penitentiary is a close friend and political associate of Harry M. Daugherty. The incident makes it clear that President Coolidge still has some house cleaning to do, because some remnants of the Daugherty gang still are in office under the federal government."

According to information reaching Senator Wheeler and other members of the Daugherty committee, the new Remus affidavit, directly repudiated Remus testimony that he had paid about $250,000 to the late Jess Smith. Mr. Daugherty's companion, for protection from prosecution.

On the contrary, Remus said in an affidavit, he never met Jess Smith nor communicated with him directly or indirectly.

Knowing that the eyes of the world are upon him, and that he, and he alone, must fix the fate of "Dickie" Loeb and "Babe" Leopold, slayers of little Robert Franks, of Chicago, in a decision that will be flashed around the world, it is small wonder that Judge John R. Caverly showed the terrible strain of the long drawn-out hearing. When he retired into seclusion to make his momentous decision Mrs. Caverly accompanied him to cheer him up.

FRATERNALISM IS COOLIDGE'S TOPIC YOUNG PEOPLE TO MEET SATURDAY

(Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Fraternalism as a strong reliance of ordered government, according to public law, was emphasized today by President Coolidge in an address to a delegation representing the National Fraternal Congress.

"The rituals of nearly all fraternal organizations," Mr. Coolidge said, "are based upon religion. No true fraternity can rest upon any other conception. It is for these reasons that they are supporters of the true aims of society, strong reliances of ordered government, according to public law, advocates of the cause of righteousness and religion and effective promoters of peace and good will among the nations of the earth."

It is easy to see how far reaching is the spirit of brotherhood of fraternity and of mutual helpfulness. It is a fundamental principle of our country. It is scarcely too much to say that almost all which we can properly designate as American is a development of these previous precious principles and high ideals.

DIPLOMATS ACT AS CHINA BREWS FIGHT

(Associated Press)

PEKIN, Aug. 29.—In addition to the warning note sent by the diplomatic corps yesterday to the Chinese foreign office, declaring that the government would be held responsible for injury to foreigners or property in the warfare which is threatened in the vicinity of Shanghai, the British minister is understood to have sent a separate note regarding the Shanghai Nanking railroad, which is menaced by the hostile Chinese forces.

CHANGHAI, Aug. 29.—The spark igniting all China in open warfare was seen today in the impending conflict in the eastern portion of Kiang Su province in which Chi Shien Yuan, the aggressor, expects to drive out his rival, Lu Yi Hsiang Tuchen of Chekiang province, who has ruled the contested section of Kiang Su province, since his appointment under the deposed Anfu party.

ADJUSTMENT MADE ON ROAD CONTRACT UNCOMPLETED HERE

Differences Over the Work by Wolfe Co. Are Ironed Out

HARRIS AND TROUP RETURN HOME

Court Proceedings Gave County $44,000 From Bondsmen

All differences growing out of the suit gained a year ago against the J. M. Wolfe company, which concern failed to complete a road building project in Morgan County, have been adjusted, it was stated by officials at the Morgan County court house Friday, following the return from Montgomery of Probate Judge L. P. Troup, and County Attorney A. J. Harris.

The differences involved the liability of Morgan County and the Alabama Highway Commission, for work done on the highway that the J. M. Wolfe company failed to complete, the county and the commission having each contributed money and labor for the completion of the work, as left by the Wolfe company.

The adjustment was made at a conference held in Montgomery Thursday, attended by Attorney General Harwell Davis, Messrs. Troup and Harris and others.

Aftermath of Post War Prices

The adjustment proved satisfactory to both the Morgan County officials and to the state highway commission. It marks the end of a long controversy, that probably never would have arisen, but for the sudden rise in prices soon after the J. M. Wolfe company took the contract to build sections of the Bee Line highway, between the Twin Cities and Hartsville.

The Wolfe company had built only a few miles of road, when prices began to soar, for labor and material. The company discontinued its work and Attorney Harris, representing county officials, notified the American Surety company of New York, bondsmen for the J. M. Wolfe company, of the default of their principal. Last year a court proceedings brought by Attorney Harris was lost, by the bonding company, which forced it to pay to the county the sum of $44,000 for work the county had done on the Wolfe contract.

Another Big Rum Ship Is Reported

(Associated Press)

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 29.—Further revelations of rum running on a large scale along the lake Ontario shore was contained today in a copyrighted story printed by The Rochester Journal and Post-Express.

According to the story a reporter for the newspaper boarded a large liquor running craft last night between Pultneyville and Sodus Bay, witnessing the activities of the rum craft that came out for their cargoes.

From the captain the reporter learned that he pays nightly visits to the New York shore from Canada, always landing a full cargo of ale and whiskey. The reporter said the

PRINCE OF WALES SETS FOOT ON U. S. SOIL LATE FRIDAY

Royal Party to Leave Berengaria At Quarantine

CLUB PREPARES FOR WELCOME

Suite Will Motor To Country Home Of James A. Burden

(Associated Press)
NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The Prince of Wales arrived on the liner Berengaria at quarantine, lower New York harbor, at 2:17 o'clock this afternoon. The Prince planned to leave the liner as soon as the customary medical inspection of the vessel could be completed and proceed to Glencove on the north shore of Long Island on the fast yacht, Black Watch.

NEW YORK, Aug. 29.—The Prince of Wales will set foot on American soil late this afternoon at Glencove, Long Island, where an extra shift of workmen, employed by the New York Yacht Club worked last night under electric lights to create a setting fit to welcome the heir to the British throne.

The exact time of the Prince's arrival is unknown. It was said at the office of the Cunard line that the Berengaria would arrive at quarantine with her royal passenger at about two o'clock.

Later advices shifted this hour to four o'clock and it is possible that rough weather immediately outside Sandy Hook may cause a further delay.

Plans for landing the Prince, necessarily dependent on the time of his arrival, still were complete in some respects. He will be taken from the liner at quarantine with his suite as soon as the medical staff has accepted the formal notification of the ship's doctor, "no contagious disease cases on board."

The usual medical inspection of the other passengers will follow, but the Prince will not be required to await this formality. The Black Watch, a speedy gasoline yacht, which did duty during the war as a submarine chaser and which is now owned by Robert Graves, will be alongside the Prince's ship at quarantine until the Prince is ready to leave the liner.

The present plan is for the party to proceed immediately to the New York Yacht Club at Glencove and from that point to go by motor to Syosset, where the Prince will take up residence in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Burden, which is to be his headquarters during his stay here.

Hits Prince of Wales Right on Jaw.

GEORGE MASON

Here is one man who has hit the Prince of Wales right on the jaw—and got away with it. He is George Mason, former English featherweight boxer, now in charge of the ship's gymnasium on the liner Berengaria, with whom the Prince boxed on his way to America. Mason said the Prince was only a fair boxer.

Following the alleged attack Puckett was removed from the county several weeks, on account of the feeling against him.

LONDON PACT GETS 'APPROVAL' AS RAIL STATUE IS ADOPTED

Necessary Two-Thirds Majority Returned For Measure

AGREEMENT PLAN PUT INTO EFFECT

Vote of Solons Places Reparations Nearer Realization

(Associated Press)
BERLIN, Aug. 29.—The German reichstag today accepted the Dawes reparations plan agreement concluded at the recent London conference by adopting by a vote of 314 to 127, the necessary two-thirds majority, the railway bill to put into effect the provisions of the London agreement.

The German Nationalists, whose open opposition to the agreement and whose attacks on it during the debate yesterday and today, has made the results of the voting problematical, voted in favor of the railway bill but they voted against the banking bill, another of the Dawes measure, which, nevertheless, was adopted by a vote of 295 to 172, a two thirds vote being unnecessary on this bill.

The industrial bill, the third of those provided under the Dawes plan also was adopted by the necessary majority.

The vote on the railway measure provided 20 votes in favor of the bill in excess of the two thirds majority which was required.

More than two thirds of the nationalists favored its acceptance.

Up until ten minutes before the vote was taken on the all important railway bill, the outcome of today's voting on the London agreement had been wholly conjectural, although persons in well informed circles had learned early in the day of a peace pact which was said to have been concluded between Foreign Minister Stresemann and the Nationalists. This was the eleventh hour agreement between the government and the Nationalists, which resulted in the deflection of the 67 votes from the ranks of this opposition party and which enabled the government to obtain a constitutional majority in support of its work at London.

A DAILY PRAYER—May Thou come so near to us that selfishness may be burned as it were from our breasts, error driven from our minds and our wills lose their weakness in union with Thy strength.

Rejuvenation is a mighty fine thing, provided undesirable citizens do not partake of it too freely.

If inquiring minds were able mind the children.

If "defense days" arouses no more enthusiasm than it has so far, what's the use in having it.

A recent number of the "American Mercury" a journal whose editor ever and always takes a delight in questioning the conduct and motives of others and who seems to enjoy making fun of others, says the following of Messrs. Coolidge and John W. Davis, but without calling them by name:

The present combat runs true to type. On the one hand, a petty lawyer out of a small town is trying to pass himself off as a learned, sagacious and noble fellow. On the other hand, a gaudy lawyer out of Wall street and the Piping Rock Club is trying to pass himself off as an honest son of toil, one whose heart bursts for John Smith. It is a comedy with many charming scenes, a farce in the grand manner.

It is entertaining and some times laughable, to hear expressions that call in question the great and the near great. But what good purpose is served, when writers try to say such things about people to whom we have to look for leadership. Such thoughts as those of the Mercury are best expressed in the funny paper. There may be some truth in all the writer says, but he neglects to tell the whole truth. Davis and Coolidge are men first of all, and either would measure up quite as well as the writer who has made so much fun of them; and doubtless both of them have none as much hard work and accomplished as much as the one who would laugh them to scorn.

Mars came within thirty-four million miles of her sister planet, earth, without giving us any information about her geography, inhabitants, if there be inhabitants or the mode of living of whatever of life that exists on her continent. Efforts of astronomers and other scientists failed to develop any additional facts, but they did serve to open new avenues for the working of the imagination.

Scientists seem agreed that Mars has an atmosphere. If such be true, human beings can exist on the planet. They seem agreed, furthermore, that there are continents. If that be true, there is a place for the abode of human beings. Many of them believe vegetation is growing. If that be true, there is sustenance for human beings. But science is unable to go further. Mars may be the habitation of human beings, but proof of it does not exist. Residents of the earth have talked about communication with Mars through the ages. There is no method developed up to this time.

Perhaps, there will be by the time she comes within thirty-four million miles, of earth again. But earth's population now will have little interest in the communication at that time unless the Guiding Hand of Providence gives them longer life here or sends them, in another life, to be residents of Mars. A finite mind cannot speculate on what future as in store. How do we know but that Martians are happy in a civilization more highly developed than the one we know? How do we know but that our advancement, wonderful though it be, is but the first step in the progress already made by the residents of Mars?

We did not receive a message from Mars. Mars offered us no advice and consolation in our troubles. But Mars' coming within thirty-four million miles of earth occasioned some serious thought on the part of those capable of thinking. It brought a human being back to the realization that his part is a small part in the machinery set up by Providence and known as life and that his duty is to obey the commands that come forth from the Director.—Montgomery Journal.

According to a correspondent in the Gunterville Advertiser, the vocational agricultural school at Arab, on Brindlee mountain, turned in a net profit of $4,000 from the projects of the students in the all day classes, and the farmers who attended the evening classes, all under the supervision of the teacher of the department during its first year ending June 30, 1923. It will do equally as well in the past year. The investment of the Marshall county board of education at Arab, in co-operation with the state and federal authorities paid the greatest dividends, it is claimed, of any school in the county—probably in the state. The salary of the teacher was $2,000 for the first year. The profit to the students was twice that much. The boys undertook projects in field and garden crops, while the farmers cultivated large acreages in field crops, all being required to keep accurate record of their work and expenses. They cultivated 82 acres producing 16,750 pounds seed cotton, 968 bushels of corn with a total income of $2,366.13. They also cultivated seven acres in garden truck from which they realized a net profit of $247.26. The farmers' class cultivated 70 acres of experimental crops, producing 9,592 pounds of seed cotton and 1,047 bushels of corn at a profit of $1,436.89.

We maintain that every dollar the county put into this school paid great dividends in money but that its greatest worth is in the scientific training it has given young and old. In addition to directing these projects, the vocational teacher at Arab, G. C. Williams, terraced more than 1,000 acres of land for more than 25 farmers, treated a number of sick animals, conducted a community fair, gave advice on all sorts of farming problems and succeeded in inducing 50 per cent of the farmers of his community to mix their own fertilizers, thereby saving them thousands of dollars in one year.

What Arab has done can, and is being done wherever such a school exists. We believe that this story of progress can be matched in any community in North Alabama where the people are willing to co-operate. There is no question that vocational agriculture as a part of the public school curriculum is a paying investment.—Gadsden Times.

Construction On the Increase Now

(Associated Press)
 WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Improvement in conditions in the construction industry in July over July, 1923, were noted in a statement issued by the commerce department today to refute published reports of a construction slump.

The value of contracts let in 36 states in July, the statement said, shows an increase of 10 per cent over that of a year ago and the total contracts let from January 1 to the end of July showed a like gain over the same period of 1923.

Practically all classes of construction contributed to the increase.

Labor Day Tournament Planned. Members To Be Entered In Play Monday

According to the announcement of the tournament committee all members of the Valley Country club will be entered in the Labor Day tournament on Monday. The committee was today at work perfecting details for the play.

Eighteen holes will be played, nine in the morning and nine in the afternoon. No qualifying round will be necessary for the classification of players as the scores that have been made in the afternoon play during the summer season will be compared and the flights selected from these records.

Each member will be given a handicap to be determined by chairman of the tournament committee and by Mr. Dryden who recently became connected with the club.

This tournament will be the second played by the local golfers since the opening of the club course the first tournament being won by Darryl Peebles on July 4, last.

Considerable interest has been stirred up among the club members regarding the coming Labor Day play and although the period has been short that the local golf enthusiasts have been allowed to play a number of them have shown great strides in improvement. The tournament will be far from an easy victory for anyone.

Shopmen Announce Lineup to Face Evansville For Labor Day Bill

Manager A. L. McCauley manager of the local Louisville and Nashville Shopmen has announced the following lineup for the first encounter of the Labor Day double bill to be played on Monday afternoon at Malone Park.

Brisby 1f, Jernigan 1st, Best 2b, Donahue, ss, McMaisters cf, Thompson, rf, McCauley 3b, with Ezell and Hendrix as the battery. The regular shop lineup is one of the strongest in the city league circuit being at this time in a knot for the leadership of the Industrial loop.

The second affair on Monday will see a picked team go into action to oppose the visiting Shopmen from the Indiana city. This club will be made up of men from the four outfits in the city league: Shelton, rf, R. Collier 2b, Watson ss, Pepper 3b, Banks 1b, Odom lf, Bloodworth cf, with Moore and Smith of the Cornicemen as batteries.

The Evansville club packs a wallop that has gained a bit of fame in the Indiana city having lost only two games this season and naturally well up in the leadership of the Industrial circuit of that city. Several well known faces will be in the lineup. Daily a pitcher said to be one of the Evansville hurlers for the afternoon was a former member of the hurling corps of the old Lawrenceburg team that created such a turmoil in the northern Alabama and Southern Tennessee cities. "Goat" Neville a local product of the old Y club will be in there and it is reported that the 300 charmed circle bears no charm against him. He has been clubbing at tip top speed the entire season. "Bull" Steadman catcher of the old Y team and who has been given tryouts with Southern League clubs will do the receiving for the visiting lads as well as being one of the leaders in the mace race. Bull, according to all reports sifting through to local ears, has conquered the old failing at the plate and is hitting at a 350 mark. Ott Humes is also another local product that is connected with the Evansville team; Ott is not playing with the club but has had considerable to do with the building of the team and is counted one of the most valuable assets of the club.

Any of you boys who wish to get in on this please report to Mr. Arvidson at the Y. M. C. A.

New York Letter

by Lucy Jeanné Price

NEW YORK, Aug. 28.—Antionette Marmo and his family, who live hereabouts, are eating pork chops these days, and Marmo incidentally has saved himself a fine of something like $5 or $10. The neighbors complained that Marmo was harboring a pig in the cellar of his home and he was hauled into court. He was told to dispose of the pig but he claimed he did not have the heart to kill it, nice pig that it was. Out of respect of his feelings the magistrate suggested that he give the pig to the officer who had arrested him. And then it was that Marmo experienced a change of heart and reported to the court that he had also changed his mind and that his butcher did a good job.

This time it is a chicken. I begin to think it is these funny names that get people mixed up in so many complications. Mrs. Bertha Beyrouthy lost all her divorce litigation recently, the evidence hanging on the question of a wishbone. She and her husband pulled a wishbone three days after they were married to determine who was to be boss. Beyrouthy testified that he got the larger portion.

But his wife refused to let him boss. That very night, they lay awake three hours arguing over who should turn off the light. The wife's only defense was that the wishbone idea came from his mother, and of course that quered the justice of it. The judge upheld the tradition and ruled that the bigger half gave him the draw over his better half.

The roll call in the Gotham menagerie next produces a mule. His highness lives down on Water street and is no comfort to any but the kids of the district. It would not be broken to harness and had no other desire than to roam the great open spaces of South street. Untethered, the obstinate animal roamed the streets from morning until night, kicking and heehawing to the delight of the kids, most of whom never saw a mule before. But if he was only content with that. Some devilish person taught him to pilfer the feed bags under the wagons and trucks along the street. It has made him a regular bum. And the crowning insolence of this mendicant is in his trick around the Gouverneur hospital. Signs on all sides caution the public not to disturb patients with unnecessary noises, yet he will post himself out in front, hee-haw so loudly that internes have to come out and feed him before he will move. Just a case of another good mule gone wrong.

The conduct of Sam H. Harris for the coming theatrical season has been the subject of much speculation, inasmuch as he is president of the Producing Managers' association and a leader of the managerial group as against the demands of the Equity association. But things seem to have been patched up satisfactorily and his program for the year is announced. He will stage another Irving Berlin Music Box Revue on Thanksgiving Day, "Moon and Sixpence" dramatized by Somerset Maugham and our own Edith Ellis will also be produced. Then "Topsy and Eva," which I told about a year ago, will be brought to New York with the Duncan Sisters. Other of his offerings are: "The Haunted House," with Wallace Edinger; "Lazybones," "Thoroughbreds," "In His Arms," "The Backslapper," "Mario Taylor, Waitress," "Anna Vroome," "Mr. Smilick," "Hook or Crook," and an English comedy, "The Likes of Her."

Fancy having the chance to be host to Edward, Prince of Wales, and then walking off and leaving him just as he is about to arrive. That is what the James A. Burdens have done. The Prince is to make their Long Island house his headquarters during his stay here in September in return for many compliments he has paid them on the other side. But Mr. and Mrs. Burden had their plans made to do some stag shooting in Scotland and have sailed before the Prince of Wales arrives. True they have left the Winthrops, equally nice people, to do the honors for them, but I daresay not many Americans would resist the temptation to do personal tribute to the likeable guest.

Speaking of riches, I have been interested to see whether the city ordinance which requires all of the Madison avenue property owners to slice off the fronts of their houses would be applied to the lovely old J. P. Morgan house. Sure enough it has, and like the meanest of them, it is being altered to conform.

Halouk Fikret Bey has a new idea of his homeland, Turkey, which he left several years ago. Since coming to this country he has been assistant professor of engineering at the University of Cincinnati. Recently he became engaged to an American girl, and the other day his mother arrived from Turkey to visit him. The young professor thought he would get the worst over with at once, and so immediately upon meeting his mother at the steamer, he broke the news of his engagement. That didn't ruffle her and so he proceeded to the real shock. "Mother, she bobs her hair," he said and waited for registration of worry. None appeared. "Oh, that's nothing," the mother replied. "Your revered aunt, forty years old, has bobbed hers, too."

Love is love but Manhattan grips its own with a firmness that even love is not always able to overcome. Pretty Catherine Chapman, of our city, loved and loves—Alfred Anderson, lumberman of Norfolk, Va. At St. Rose's church just as the priest was preparing to make them man and wife, Catherine declared her ultimatum. She would marry Alfred if he would live in New York, but under no circumstances would she live in Norfolk. Now, however, much a man adores a girl, it's a hard thing to have her demand that one instantly step from Norfolk to New York, discarding the lumber business with a hasty wave of goodby. It was too much for Alfred. He thought desperately, then shook his head sadly and telephoned for a reservation to Norfolk. The priest and guests were notified of the change of plans and Miss Chapman departed for a week-end with relatives—but no farther from Manhattan than Staten Island.

Here's victory for a large number of us who have slid guiltily from the news sections into the pages devoted to cross word puzzles in our Sunday papers. Now we need be shame-faced about them no longer. Columbia University has placed the approval of science upon our favorite game by adopting these puzzles as a form of intelligence test.

If no one had been seriously injured, our recent wreck in Brooklyn would have been almost worth while, just to offset the modern talk of antagonism between men and women. One newspaper in describing the accident stated that "the next moment, there was a struggling, screaming mass of people on the embankment." Immediately letters began to come in to the paper, denying, and the interesting feature was the number of men who wrote in to tell how calm and brave the women were and how none of them screamed; and the women who wrote to insist that not a man lost his head nor pushed anyone aside, that they were calm, courageous and chivalrous throughout. Maybe it's not such a bad generation, after all.
